2. The officers from the Hermann-Loens-Kaserne and the Sachsendorf Kaserne were billeted in the houses opposite the Hermann-Loens-Kaserne. They wore tank and artillery insignia. *
3. The Sachsendorf Kaserne had a billeting capacity of about 2,500 troops. All barracks buildings seemed to be fully occupied. In some of the buildings the beds were arranged in tiers of two; soldiers observed in the billeting area wore red-bordered black epaulets, some with tank insignia, and red epaulets. From 300 to 400 troops, organized in groups of about 20, were seen drilling in the adjoining terrain. They seemed to be recruits. A unit, of about 50 soldiers who wore red-bordered black epaulets with tank insignia, was seen entering the installation. Several groups of soldiers were also observed drilling in the barracks yards. Tanks of an undetermined type were seen through the open doors of the garages. Most of the trucks in the installation were parked under sheds. identified in the barracks yard. *
